

The airwaves belong to the public, and the public is not monolithic. Democracy depends on many voices. When information and political viewpoints are restricted, the vitality of a democracy suffers greatly. I support limiting the number of broadcast outlets owned by a single corporation.